- 1 Our children's club has a number of activities today in the Blue Lounge. From 10 am to noon there's chess. At half-past one, you can have a lesson with John, our martial arts teacher, or, if you prefer, you can try to win the prize in our fun photography competition.
- 2 Boy: I don't have my timetable. Do we have Geography today?
Girl: It's Thursday, so there are no more Geography lessons this week.
Boy: So what's our first lesson? I hope it's ICT – it's my favourite.
Girl: Mine too, but ICT is after the lunch break. First there's PE.
Boy: I can't do PE. The doctor says I can't run this month.
Girl: See you in Art class, then. That's the last lesson before lunch.
Boy: OK.
- 3 A: What's your home like, Ben?
B: It's quite big with a large living room, a modern kitchen and three bedrooms.
A: Do you like living there?
B: Yes. I do. The living room is very comfortable and there's plenty of space in the kitchen, but most of all I love my bedroom and I spend most of my time there.
- 4 Man: Watch the player in the number 8 shirt. He's amazing.
Woman: In what way?
Man: He can run really fast.
Woman: But he doesn't kick the ball much.
Man: No, he doesn't score many goals. He plays on this side of the pitch.
- 5 Man: Hello, Mr Stewart. The Brazilian money for your holiday is here. You need to come to our head office. It's on the third floor of the new shopping centre between Frederick Street and Victoria Road. The address is 5, Edward Place. It's opposite the library.

Sue: Hi, Greg.
Greg: Hi, Sue.
Sue: Do you know anyone who is good at Chemistry?
Greg: I always get high marks in science subjects, but I only study Physics and Biology.
Sue: Maybe you can help me to understand this task.
Greg: Sorry, I have a lesson at 2 o'clock. Can't Harry help you?
Sue: He's on a computer in the library. He always does his History work at lunchtime.
Greg: It's his favourite subject. He's very hardworking in that lesson, but not in Geography!
Sue: Julie's fantastic at that. Maybe she's good at Chemistry too.
Greg: I don't think so. You're the only one of us who studies Chemistry.

Welcome to our summer school. I'm here to tell you about students' daily routine here. Breakfast is between 7:30 and 8:30. You can have a shower before the breakfast hour, or before the first lesson at 9:30. You have lessons until 1, and then you have a two-hour break. You can have lunch between 1:30 and 2:30, and you can relax in the rest of the lunch break. At 3 every day there's a different activity. Every Monday we put the activities for the week on this wall. Of course there are no lessons at the weekends. On those days we take you to visit interesting cities and buildings. Dinner is at the same time every day, though – 7 till 9. You can stay up until 10:30, then all students go to bed. At 11 we check that all lights are out. If you have any problems at any time, come to see me at this office, or call my mobile phone.

Woman: A man needed to go to hospital on Saturday after a snake attacked him. Jonathan Jones has more information. Jonathan, what happened?

Jonathan: A 35-year-old man was walking through the woods to get from the beach to the zoo when he noticed a snake on a rock. He picked it up and it bit him. He was in a lot of pain.

Woman: What kind of snake was it? Was it somebody's pet that escaped?

Jonathan: No, it was an adder – the only dangerous snake we have in Britain.

Woman: How often does this happen?

Jonathan: It's very rare. Although adders can kill small mammals with their bites, they are not aggressive towards humans unless they stand on them or pick them up. In fact, they are very shy with us.

Woman: But when they attack people, are they deadly?

Jonathan: Healthy people can easily survive a bite from an adder, but the bites can badly affect people who are weak from illness, elderly people and children. You should always get some medical treatment if it happens.

Woman: What advice can you give people who are now afraid of adders?

Jonathan: If you see one, don't bother it. If you leave an adder alone, it will leave you alone.

Woman: Do people need to be careful about adders all year round?

Jonathan: No, adders sleep from September or October until spring.

Woman: So in summer, how can people avoid accidentally stepping on one?

Jonathan: Adders like to live near long grass or other plants to hide in, so when you're in the countryside, stay on paths, roads and tracks. If you must walk through long grass, cover your ankles and lower legs to protect yourself.

My name is Lucy and I stopped eating meat when I was nine. There were two reasons for that. I couldn't enjoy it because I thought of the animal that died, and that upset me. Also, I just didn't like the taste of meat very much. My parents bought vegetarian sausages and burgers to cook for me. They didn't think I'd be healthy without that kind of food. I ate them, but just to avoid arguments. These days, I wouldn't eat those kinds of meat substitutes because they contain eggs, which I gave up five years ago when I became a vegan. Vegans don't eat anything that comes from animals. It's not as difficult as it sounds. If you can't live without dairy products, you can buy milk and even cheese made from plants now, so you can still make favourite dishes like lasagne. I really hope a lot more people will become vegans in the future. In my opinion, relying more on plants and less on animals is the only way we'll be able to feed everyone in an overpopulated world. Plants, including nuts and seeds, provide all the things our bodies take from animal products.

One of my tasks in my job is to welcome new people to the office and explain the company's history, rules and goals. There's a lot to remember, so I used all the most important information to create a PowerPoint presentation. Everyone who works here has seen it. It's so useful, I've put it on three memory sticks.

years ago, there were science journals and magazines all over my desk. What a mess it was! Now I pay to read them all online. It's cheaper, less messy and easier for me to find articles that are particularly important to my work this way.

After every holiday I take, I invite friends and family to my house and we sit around my laptop to look at my pictures from the trip. Really, it's just a reason to have a little party. We only look at the photos for 20 minutes or so, then we chat for the rest of the night. I only print particularly impressive photos these days.

I'm at university and very few people in my classes write notes now. These days we can take our laptops into lecture rooms and use them to create notes. There are lots of advantages to it. I've used computers all my life, so I can type faster than I can write, and sometimes we can help the teachers by checking a detail they can't remember. Some people use laptops in class for personal reasons, of course, but really they just don't help themselves if they don't pay attention.
